Scottish Rite Address

December 14, 2020

The following presentation was made at our last meeting and I wanted to make sure that all members of the Valley know what was said at that meeting.

Brethren, tonight my comments are going to be different than they have been in the past. As an example, I am working off of a prepared script and not just a few notes. The reason for this change, is that my comments tonight are very important, and I want to make sure that I say everything that I want to say and that needs to be said.

Tonight, we approved a budget for the Valley that shows that we are expecting to withdraw $252,249 from our investment portfolio to balance the budget. I don't want to necessarily go through the budget line by line, but I do believe that our General Secretary and others are doing everything within their power to generate income for the Valley and at the same time, control our expenses. As you can easily identify, one area where we are really losing is in our annual dues income. It should be no surprise to anyone that Masonry in general is losing members and therefore, dues income is becoming less and less every year. We are no different than our Blue Lodges, York Rite bodies, Shrine Temples, Grottos, you name the organization. As of yesterday, we had a total membership of 2,178 members. Of that number, 1,368 are dues paying members and 810 are exempt from dues. These brothers are exempt either because they are Perpetual members or are exempt due to age and financial situations. Those exempt from dues represent 37% of our total membership. Put another way, we do not collect $72,900 in dues revenue.

The cornerstone for this building was laid in April 1973, when our membership in the Valley was in excess of 10,000 members. Today, our membership is just over 2,100. We ended 2013 with a membership of 3,153.

Eighteen months ago, a decision was made by the Temple Association to look at what our alternatives were for our continued operation. With the assistance of B. J. Raposa, conversations were held with a local engineering firm to see what our options were for this property. Through those meetings, Ill.: John Drewett, Ill.: Mike Pender and Ill.: Carl Gilmore and myself have met with Mr. Roger Anderson with the architectural firm Gresham Smith and Mr. Troy Carter of Beacon Engineering.

I will tell you that the original idea was to sell the front part of our property with the building and to build a smaller building on the back property which is undeveloped. During those meetings, I have said that I felt that we could operate with a building approximately half the size that we have now (50,000 square feet) but that was not a firm requirement. Mr. Anderson, after researching our current situation, has presented a plan to building a 24,000 square foot building, not on the back part of the property but rather in the NW quadrant of our property, which is currently a part of the parking lot. To give you some examples as to how a building of 24,000 square feet would compare to our existing building, at the present time our auditorium (not including the stage) is 5,990 square feet with 700 permanent seats. In a smaller building, it would be 2,800 square feet with seating for 350; this Lodge Room is currently 3,815 square feet. It is anticipated that it would be reduced to approximately 2,200 square feet. There will be other reductions in the amount of space, but these two areas are perhaps the most concern to many of us.

This publication acknowledges authority and yields allegiance to the Supreme Council A&A Scottish Rite, Southern Jurisdiction of which Ill.: Richard G. Hoover, 33° is the Deputy in the Orient of Florida.

Gresham Smith has provided us with some “massing” options (architect’s language) of four different conceptual designs and our options look good as to what we could do with a 24,000 square foot building.

At the present time, we have met with one interested party in the property. Using Covid-19 protocols, we met here in the Board Room with this individual. We would retain ownership of the NW quadrant with the appropriate ingress and egress and other considerations. Please note, there are no offers on the table, and nothing has been agreed to by anyone. It is understood that any potential buyer will have a period of time to do their due diligence. We have also contracted with the property management firm of Cushman Wakefield to appraise our property so that we know what the fair market value is.

Brethren, I assure you that there will be no offer accepted by the Temple Association until it has been reviewed by our legal counsel, approved by the Executive Committee and you, the members of the Consistory and the Deputy in the Orient of Florida.

I know there are a lot of questions out there and I know that once we leave here, the word will hit the Masonic community as to what I have said tonight. Brethren, I want to make it crystal clear, this is not a Fire Sale, we are not going broke and looking to close up shop. This is simply a prudent business decision that needs to be made. We would not be doing our fiduciary responsibilities if we buried our head in the sand and did nothing. 🐼

by Casey A. Fletcher, 33°

As explored in previous missives, Stoic philosophy had its origin in Zeno of Citium (334 BCE- 262 BCE). He founded a Stoic School in Athens around 300 BCE. Through a succession of leaders, students, followers and practitioners, the philosophy continued to develop for centuries through the life of the Roman emperor, Marcus Aurelius (121-180 CE), who was known as the Philosopher King.

The Stoics were concerned, as are Masons, with how to live a life of virtue; to be able to address realities so we may live a happy life. Theirs was not an academic pursuit, per se; neither was their course of action to learn to resign oneself to conditions beyond control or influence. Theirs was a pursuit to become better men, citizens and family members. Their pursuit was an “act of turning words into works.”

Posidonius of Syria (135-51 BCE) exemplified that Stoics and philosophers were consumed with more than proofs or debate. He illustrated a virtue of curiosity, a fascination with the complex world around us, that we “can and should learn wisdom from everything.” He asserted, “the more (we) experience, the more (we) learn and, paradoxically, the more humbled (we) are by the endless amounts of knowledge that remain in front of (us).”

He advised to be wary of ambition and to avoid mob-thinking and impulses (think of the 3rd Degree and the 9th and 10th Degrees in the AASR.) He advocated independent thinking, admonishing to avoid the “aristocratic elites” who are “surrounded by a bubble of their own like minds.”

The 4th Degree, Secret Master, instructs us that “if we seek to find Truth, we should study philosophy and logic. Their rules and syllogisms will help us separate truth from falsehood. When we can do this, we will be able to form our own opinions without having to rely on what others' opinions.”

Finally, Posidonius, like all Stoics, recommended good habits and lifestyles—they are “checks against the irrational part of the soul and the world.” He asserted, “philosophy is meant to be lived.”

Stoicism requires disciplined thought, action and perseverance. The word itself means impassive, enduring and patient. So it is with Masonic ritual; we learn to subdue our passions, practice good habits and consider our duties in life.

Our ancient brethren read and studied Stoicism; they concealed much stoic philosophy and wisdom, in plain sight, within our Work.

We are endeavoring to schedule a degree for our February 8 meeting at 6:10 p.m. 🐾

Don't look back! Press On

Not that I have already obtained all this, or have already arrived at my goal, but I press on to take hold of that for which God took hold of me. Brothers and sisters, I do not consider myself yet to have taken hold of it. But one thing I do: Forgetting what is behind and straining toward what is ahead, I press on toward the goal to win the prize for which God has called me heavenward.

Philippians 3: 12-14 (NIV)

Today is the first day of the year. Many of us are looking forward to the start of this New Year. For a lot of reasons this has been a hard year for a lot of people. Today is a day commonly reserved for resolutions for the New Year. It is a time for serious reflection of where our life has been, where it is, and where we want it to be. Deep down inside we know that our lives are not all doomed to fate. We know that our attitudes and actions have an effect on what direction our life goes.

Paul is describing the process he goes through. I believe it is a process we should go through daily, but New Year's Day is a great day to start. The first thing Paul admits is that he hasn't already obtained perfection. We need to understand that God is alright with our flaws. He doesn't condone our sinfulness. He knows what effect sin has on our lives and forgives us if we believe. It is OK that you are not where you thought you would be at this point in time. None of us is. But here is the most important part! Paul says, "But one thing I do: Forgetting what is behind..." My Brothers this is a key thought. Paul is saying that there can be no significant improvement in his life until he forgets what is behind. What he is saying is that he must forgive and forget what lies behind before he can move forward.

If there is one thing we must do today, it is to go through the process of true repentance. If God has forgiven and forgotten our sins, why do we continue to carry them around? All they do is drag us down and make us feel like nothing can change in our lives. Right now, let's stop for a minute and reflect on the last year. Let's give up any ugliness that still hides there and place it on the cross. Now, let's walk away in the freedom of that forgiveness. Feel the load being removed from your shoulders?!?! Stop! Do not look back again! Never look back again! God has forgotten our sins and it is time for us to forget them too. Have you truly "forgotten what is behind?"

Paul says that now that he has forgotten what lies behind he "strains toward what is ahead." He presses on! The imagery here is of a runner straining for the finish line. As we look to the coming year, Paul tells us not to be dragged along through time but to strain toward goals and plans that we have made. Here is where successful resolutions are made. Now that we have let go of the dead weight of the past we can move forward toward the things we want for the New Year. If it is not already on our resolution list, we need to add that we will strive to be more Firmly Rooted in God's Word this New Year. Paul places first on his list his spiritual resolutions and I think we should too. It will be tough to get our physical resolutions going right if our spiritual ones are not in place. Let's agree to put spiritual things first and may they be the guiding words to your resolution process today and into the New Year.

May God richly bless your New Year! 🍀

Brother Rick has been married to Denise for over forty-two years and they have three grown children and four grandchildren. One of his great pleasures now is helping to coach his grandson's Little League baseball team. Prior to his current coaching stint, he coached both his sons in baseball and his daughter in softball. In Memoriam

“Sunset and evening star, and one clear call for me! And may there be no moaning of the bar, when I put out to sea, but such a tide as moving seems asleep, too full for sound and foam, when that which drew from out the boundless deep turns again home. Twilight and evening bell, and after that the dark! And may there be no sadness of farewell, when I embark; for tho’ from out our bourne of Time and Place the flood may bear me far, I hope to see my Pilot face to face when I have crossed the bar.” – Tennyson
