Member Education & Director of Work

by Casey A. Fletcher, 33°

“Men of action need to find space in their busy lives for philosophy.”

Such is an assertion of James Hankins (1955-) in his recent book Virtue Politics—Soul Craft and Statecraft in Renaissance Italy.

Generally, “Renaissance” refers to the period 1400-1500 and is associated with Florence. Florence was fraught with civil strife and discord, political turmoil, and armed conflict. An examination of the reasons and the search for remedies for Florence’s plight gave rise to what is sometimes called the “humanist” period. Such sages as Petrarch (1304-74), Leonardo Bruni (1370-1444), and others reflected back to the ancient republic of Rome, lamenting its demise and that Florence had not become the heir to its one-time greatness.

What happened?

The humanists asserted Rome—and Florence—lost virtue. Leaders (secular and religious) were corrupt and self-interested. They were no longer “well-educated men ... possessed of practical wisdom and informed by the study of ancient literature and moral philosophy.” Worse, the moral character of the citizenry had followed suit.

The humanists agreed on the basic means to rebuild the “...depleted reserves of good character, true piety, and practical wisdom.” They agreed a revival of classical antiquity and the study of the humanities was essential.

They drew heavily on the wisdom and writings of names familiar to readers of this column: Plato (circa 427-347 BCE), Aristotle (384-322 BCE), and Cicero (106-43 BCE). The point was not merely to read their “old books in school. It meant absorbing the moral and intellectual information human beings needed to live successfully in civilized societies.” Their remedy also espoused a vigorous education originally developed by Martianus Capella (360-482 CE) of seven disciplines now known as the liberal arts and sciences.

The humanists also addressed the relative merits and demerits of different forms of government. But they agreed, “...constitutional form was far less important than the character of rulers” and citizens.

Alas, the humanists recognized that not every leader, nor every citizen, had the time, inclination, ability or energy to sit down to read all the classics or to immerse themselves in a curriculum of the seven liberal arts and sciences. Their suggestion?

Associate with people who do!

In a real sense, Freemasonry provides just that association. Our ritual associates us with the great philosophers of many ages, Socrates, Plato, Aristotle, Cicero, Plutarch, Petrarch, Seneca, Burke, Epictetus, and other classical sages. Their teachings were passed down to us from our ancient brethren (who did read their works) and are found within Masonic ritual.

Masonry is philosophy. So, in our busy lives, we make time for philosophy by attending the Symbolic Degrees and Scottish Rite Reunions. Our attendance is our means for developing a character of virtue and achieving moral excellence. 🦁

Prelate

by Richard A.
Vogt, 32° KCCH

Oh, the over-whelming,
awe-inspiring
Love of God!

As you read this, we will have just completed two of the most important holidays in our country. We gave Thanks for all of the Blessings we have received this past year during our Thanksgiving season; and then, we remembered our Creator during the Hannukah/Christmas season. And what we should have remembered during these two seasons was, and is, the over-whelming Love of God. The Blessings we gave thanks for came from God and the gift of the Hannukah/Christmas time is a gift from God. The Lord is the creator and sustainer of life. From Him come all blessings and wisdom. Psalm 24 says, "The earth is the Lord's, and everything in it, the world, and all who live in it; for He founded it upon the seas and established it upon the waters." (NIV)

In the beginning God created man, and because of His great love for us, He created woman so that we would not be alone. From there we received families and then communities because we were meant to live and love together. Masonry is a natural extension of community. Brotherly love is our trademark. Love is the greatest gift of all from our Creator. And He loves us so much that He gave us each other that we may know that depth of love. We need only to accept His free gift, and then, pay it forward.

All of God's creation, all that He does, is done out of love. You may, probably will, go through tough times in your life. Things happen in this broken, sinful world. But, remind yourself of Job, who had everything taken from him-his family, his wealth, and his health. Yet he praised God for what he did have. Job is, maybe, an extreme example. However, his story was placed in the Bible for a purpose-and that purpose is to remind us that God will never leave us or forsake us. He allows us to go through anguish for a reason. Maybe there is a lesson He needs to teach you or maybe you are drifting away and He is calling you back. Whatever the reason, we should always praise God for what He is doing in our lives and seek to learn the lessons He has for us. Isn't it awe-inspiring to know that we have a God that loves us so much that He takes the time to teach us what we need to know and to call us back when we begin to stray.

The over-whelming, awe-inspiring Love of God is such that all who believe in Him will not perish but have ever-lasting life! Amen! 🙏

In Memoriam

“Sunset and evening star, and one clear call for me! And may there be no moaning of the bar, when I put out to sea, but such a tide as moving seems asleep, too full for sound and foam, when that which drew from out the boundless deep turns again home. Twilight and evening bell, and after that the dark! And may there be no sadness of farewell, when I embark; for tho’ from out our bourne of Time and Place the flood may bear me far, I hope to see my Pilot face to face when I have crossed the bar.” – Tennyson
